

The Hejiagou youth education project

Seeding hope, art and music in the remote highlands of western China

a project by the How Are You Cultural Association - Italy

In 2016 the How Are You Cultural Association is going to build a youth recreational center with music school in the Hejiagou village, in the highlands of southern Gansu. It's a pristine rural area among the poorest in Asia where the soil and the rain are the only resources for millions of people.

There are no kindergartners in the villages and children spend pre-school age in the fields or at home with grandparents.

The construction will start soon after running water will reach the valley through the new waterworks (estimated by 2015). The project aims to offer parents pedagogical knowledge and improve hygiene and nutritional habits, that are lower compared to eastern China. Keep on visiting our website www.howareyou.it to know about developments. Thanks!
